NURSE A SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

This month, we are showcasing the diverse initiatives undertaken by HFN through the Nurse A School (NAS) program to make a positive impact on communities in our partner states. In addition to delivering valuable clinical and educational services in schools, HFN Nurses actively engage in health education awareness and promotional activities within their respective host communities, striving to enhance overall health outcomes.

Nurse Omotosho (above) conducted community engagement exercises at Sawmill/Plank Market in Ondo town, which served as a testament to the power of education and outreach in promoting good health and well-being. With a dedicated emphasis on promoting healthy diets and vigilant blood pressure monitoring, HFN nurses fostered profound connections and empowered individuals to prioritize their well-being. HFN remains steadfast in its commitment to serving communities and fostering a lasting positive impact on public health.

In the dynamic landscape of health education, the School Assembly Health Talk remains steadfast in its commitment to inclusivity and knowledge dissemination. This image captures a moment at Methodist Girls High School, Ifaki, during a health education session held on the assembly ground. Students delved into the complex realm of genotypes, gaining insight on how our genetic makeup shapes our health and how variations within genes contribute to a wide range of traits and susceptibilities to health disorders.

NURSE A SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

Nurse Ochigbo Grace engaged and educated the students during the School Health Club gathering at Kayarda Junior Secondary School, Kuje, Abuja. She delved into the crucial subject of Understanding Puberty, covering a spectrum of topics including physical changes, emotional and psychological aspects, reproductive health, hygiene, healthy lifestyle choices, and fostering respect and acceptance. Navigating puberty can present both excitement and challenges for adolescents, and the School Health Club serves as a cornerstone in providing invaluable support throughout this transformative journey.

Nurse Abidoye educated students on personal and environmental hygiene. She gave a general overview of health, sanitation, and environmental issues in the local community and the state.

A health-promoting school is one that constantly strengthens its capacity as a healthy setting for living, learning, and working. HFN's ideal position is to impact life and promote and maintain the health of children, young adults, school staff, and the wider community.
